

Modern Defensive Tactics vs Traffickers

Silent Integrity has released a special documentary that gives an insight into their work towards eradicating human trafficking in Southeast Asia. Specialising in child sexual exploitation and trafficking, Modern Defensive Tactics Australia founder Karl Thornton heads Silent Integrity's operations globally and hopes the documentary can help create awareness and raise funds to help the cause.

Thornton has been involved in dealing with the child trafficking epidemic since 2008, using MDTA as a vehicle to train personnel in specialised fields for intelligence and surveillance operations, unarmed and armed combatives for rescue operations as well as providing training for physical response units.

Together with other committed organisations, Thornton trains specialised units within the Cambodian National Police's anti-human trafficking and criminal investigations divisions as well as training other security personnel throughout Thailand, Burma and around the world.

Silent Integrity also conduct intelligence, surveillance and rescue operations without putting other personnel at risk. All of these unique aspects of the organisation are covered in the documentary, which is available on DVD.
